

Joy Announces Scholarship Award Winners

The primary objective of Joy's scholarship program is to promote the study of mining engineering and to help educate future mining engineers. The scholarship awards are to benefit the student, the university and the future of the mining industry.

Joy is proud to announce the recipients of the 2007-2008 JOY Scholarship Awards. Students receiving this award are enrolled in the school of mining engineering, pursuing a career in the mining industry.

Student recipients are:

Dewayne Dotson – Bluefield State College;

Kirstyn Kiley – Colorado School of Mines;

Vance Rumbaugh – Pennsylvania State University;

Eric Blackford & Brad Damron – Southern Illinois University-Carbondale;

Jared Connolly – University of Arizona;

Adam Ramsey – University of Kentucky;

Jonathan McWade – University of Missouri-Rolla;

James Newman – University of Utah;

Andrew Storey – Virginia Tech;

Adam Patterson – West Virginia University.

as of November 15, 2007